

Washington State Society of American Foresters presents:

Working Forests for the 21st Century

St Martin's College, Lacey WA
November 12, 2014

Elaine Oneil PhD
Executive Director

What is a Working Forest?

- Actively Managed
- Community Based
- Triple Bottom Line Sustainability
- Planned for Integration and Balance between Values
- Maintains Intrinsic Productivity

Actively Managed....

- With Scientific Best Practices...
 - 21st Century Forest Science - Tom DeLuca
- For Ecological Benefits...
 - Silvicultural Tools to Create Habitat Diversity - Jerry Franklin
- Through Time and Change...
 - Climate adaptation of Forests - Brad St. Clair

Long-Term Sustainability

- Stewardship, Planning and Investment are Key to Working Forests

Community Based...

- Rural AND Urban Jobs

Community Based...

- Reflect Social & Community Values
 - Community Working Forest - Loren Hiner
 - Tribal Working Forest - Nancy Eldridge
 - Family Forest Owner Working Forest - Tom Westergreen

Sustainable Balance: Social, Ecological, & Economic...

- Creates Clean Water & Healthy Habitat for Fish & Wildlife & people
- Supports Local and Global Economy
- Preserves the Intrinsic Value of the Land

Integrated...

- Across Watersheds
- In the Economy
- Throughout the Industry Sector:

- Timber, Manufacturing, Loggers, Markets
- *Forestry in a Climate of Change:
Infrastructure and Markets* - Larry Mason

A Logical Natural Solution for the PNW...

- For Future Challenges
- Sequestration in Standing Trees and Wood
 - Carbon Sequestration in Wood - Peter Goldmark
 - Large Scale Wood Buildings: An Alternative to Steel and Concrete - Joseph Mayo

Working Forests..... Work for All of Us

